THE PICTURE FROM THIBET

MR. CARLSEN has long since passed the point where he needs an introduction to American art lovers. His work has so often been seen in group exhibitions here and elsewhere, that gallery visitors have come to take its presence in leading exhibitions as a matter of course. It may surprise even some of his warmest admirers to know, however, that this is the first "one-man show" of pictures by him and owned by him that has been held in many years,—the first, in fact, since he became a national figure in American art. We consider it a very real privilege to make this exhibition for him, and we welcome to our walls what we believe to be a thoroughly representative collection of his best recent work. All of the pictures are for sale at his studio prices.
