FOREWORD

MR. BROWN made his first American one-man showing in this gallery just a year ago. Coming direct from a large exhibition of his work at the Galeries Georges Petit, where the critics gave him high praise, it was not surprising that our visitors found much to delight them in these little impressions of familiar spots in France and Italy.

During the past year, he has extended his travels into Spain and along the north African coast; into Brittany, and again into Italy. These he now presents for our inspection. They are uniformly priced at one hundred and twenty-five dollars.
