FOREWORD

WITH the exception of the large canvases which have been reserved for public gallery exhibitions, the collection we now present includes all of Mr. Ryder's best pictures brought to completion during the past year.

The subjects of several of the canvases were secured in the neighborhood of his summer home in southern New Hampshire. Others had their source in the Berkshires about Egremont and Great Barrington. Still a third group, the delightful Ebb Tide, Making Port, and Foggy Morning, come from Cape Porpoise on the coast of Maine.
