NEW YORK CITY

FOREWORD

This collection is presented as a partial answer to the frequent question, "Who can best paint my portrait?" Only by seeing the type of work done by different artists, can the prospective sitter judge which is best adapted to his peculiar needs. The splendid painter of men is not always equally successful with women; and the artist to whom either men or women appeal most strongly as subjects, cannot always paint children sympathetically. Some types lend themselves to broad vigorous treatment; others require more subtle gradations of color and more finished surfaces.

So far as possible these differences in requirements are taken care of in this exhibition. Details as to prices, sittings, etc., are available for interested visitors.
