THE MAKER OF MAGIC
CHAUNCEY F. RYDER

FOREWORD

SOME little time ago, we conceived the idea of one of those "small, but choice" groups of paintings advocated in a recent issue of ART NOTES. The size of our galleries made thirty pictures advisable as the number to be shown, and several weeks have been spent in preparing a choice exhibition in which each of thirty artists should be represented by one example.

Quality, rather than authorship, has been the standard of selection, and several names new to these galleries will be noticed in the list. Each artist, as far as possible, is shown at his best, and while two or three men, whose work we should have been glad to have included, have been prevented from showing by conflicting exhibitions, many of our best artists are represented.

Through the courtesy of the owner, we are enabled to show an exceptionally fine example of the work of Mr. George De Forest Brush.
