

Popular Gardening

America's New All-Garden Magazine

Paul F. Frese, Editor

Coming
Next Issue

C O N T E N T S

Vol. 1	SEPTEMBER-OCTOBER, 1950	No. 4
The Cover Picture—Arrangement by Mrs. J. C. Graham Courtesy Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York (Three Lions)
There's Beauty in Bulbs
The Editor		8
The Art Museum—New Setting for a Show		10
Dahlia Show Dates for 1950		12
Plant Society News		12
Plants and People in the News		14
Iris Winners for 1950		15
Bargain Tulips Tested		16
Fall Asters
Mary C. Seckman		19
Minnesota Mums
Richard S. Wilcox		22
Scillas Are For You
John L. Russell		24
Companion Plants for Mums
Alice L. Dustan		26
New African Violets
Alma Wright		29
The Plant in the Picture—Franklinia
Ben Blackburn		31
Breeding Dahlias
Dr. A. E. Nash		32
How to Garden
Guide for the North by James S. Jack		34
Guide for the South by Charles J. Hudson, Jr.		38
Guide for the West Coast by Norvell Gillespie		39
Worms and Microbes Work for Nothing
John Gourlie		35
Longer Life for Garden Furniture		37
Corncob Mulch
Fred C. Hubbard		40
What's Happening to Our Shade Trees
Dr. Rush P. Marshall		41
Trumpet Lilies
Jan de Graaff		42
Timely Tips for Greenhouse Gardeners
Ernest D. Chabot		44
Plant Plenty of Tulips
John Brimer		46
Calendar of Daffodil Bloom
R. R. Thomasson		47
How to Have a Better Lawn
Fred V. Grau		48
Garden Club World
Dorothy Biddle		62
Prize Peonies
George W. Peygon		72
Your Favorite Flowers		84

● African Violet fanciers will prize the coming features filled with practical ideas on culture, new developments including the use of fluorescent light, and a story about species which make climbing plants.

● Something new has been added to Dutch iris—the bulbous kind you plant in fall for spring bloom. A startling group has just been introduced having larger and better flowers, more intense colors, and new color combinations. Don't miss this feature by Sydney B. Mitchell.

● Bright sparkling ideas for Christmas decorating, gleaned from a garden club show, are pictured in the next issue to suggest ways you can have Merry Christmas throughout your house.

● One way to acquire orchids is to trade your old shirts with the natives for plants. That's how Torkel Halsoe became an orchid fancier. The story of his experiences—and orchid growing tips too—makes good reading. A coming feature.

● Camellias—darlings of the South and West Coast—come into bloom with our last issue of the year. So we've two suggestions coming next time. One on choice, reliable varieties to grow, and the other on ways to use them as landscape plants.

● The time has come to catch up on your reading. As a guide, check over the coming reviews on the best new garden books. Christmas gift ideas here!

● Added features, too: different house plants to try; end of season fall planting ideas; fall garden preparation for spring planting; seasonal tips; departments.

November-December Issue
On sale October 24

Charles M. Winchester, Jr., Publisher

Paul F. Frese, Editor • Frank A. Hodges, Jr., Advertising Manager • Mary E. O'Brien, Managing Editor
Dorothy Biddle, Garden Club Editor • Perry Van Guysling, Art Director

POPULAR GARDENING is published bi-monthly in 1950 by Gardening Publications, Inc., 90 State Street, Albany, N. Y. Subscription rates: U. S. $2.50 a yr. (12 issues); two years (24 issues) $4.00; Canada, Mexico, Central America and U. S. Territories, $3.00 a year (12 issues). Other countries $3.50 a year. Charter Subscription Rates of 12 issues $2.00—29 issues $4.00 in effect until October 1, 1950. • Subscription and Executive Office: 90 State St., Albany 7, N. Y. Editorial Office: 141 East 44 St., N. Y. 17, N. Y. Advertising Representatives: Frank A. Hodges, Jr., Advertising Manager, 141 East 44th St., N. Y. 17, N. Y.; Midwest: Ray H. Davis, Room 720, 30 N. LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.; West: Walter R. Dimm, 3533 N. E. 21 Ave., Portland, Ore. • Entered as second class matter at the post office at Albany, N. Y. with additional entry at Dayton, Ohio. Printed in U. S. A. • Copyright 1950 by Gardening Publications, Inc.